

Scott Timber Ltd – Gender Pay Gap Reporting

GENDER PAY GAP

As a Company of more than 250 employees, the Equality Act 2010 (Gender Pay Gap Information) Regulations 2017 requires Scott Timber Limited to publish prescribed gender pay gap information.

Gender pay gap should not be confused with equal pay. Scott Timber Limited provides equal pay for male and female employees in equal roles and every role within the business is available to both males and females.

The gender pay gap noted in the tables below does not stem from men and women being paid differently for the same or equivalent work, but rather from the varying roles in which men and women work in the business and the pay levels such roles attract.

Whilst all roles are available to both males and females, the timber manufacturing industry as a whole has difficulty in attracting females to roles in the direct workforce including those of pallet maker, pallet sorter, machine and nail gun operators and forklift truck operators. Such roles constitute the majority of roles available within the business.

We rarely receive applications from females for roles within the direct workforce although have been successful in attracting females into administrative, finance, HR and management support roles.

As part of our commitments to transparency and fairness, we confirm that no annual bonus payments were paid during the reporting period. Consequently, annual bonus provisions have been removed from this year's gender pay gap calculations.

The gender bonus gap noted in the tables below is we believe reflective of (1) the number of female employees receiving a bonus being less than the number of male employees (to be expected given the predominantly male dominated workforce) and (2) the roles in which females are employed typically offering a higher bonus level compared to the male dominated direct workforce roles.

Gender Pay Gap – Prescribed Information

The mean gender pay gap	24.9%

Scott Timber will report its gender pay gap on an annual basis and is committed to ensuring continued equality in terms of pay and recruitment opportunities between males and females.
